The hard work put in 2010 will bear positive results for you in the year ahead. The months of April and May will see you embark on new projects or take up new challenges. You will gain immense support from friends and family in whatever you do. Such will be your confidence that you will even win over enemies. The months of July and August will see you investing in property. You might get a share in your ancestral property as well. Health will be a major concern during the last quarter of 2011, and will take a big bite out of your savings. However, you will bounce back monetarily in January 2012 and reap rich dividends from a paltry investment made a few years back.
